

ECCN Exception List

ECCN EXCEPTION LIST FOR LINEAR TECHNOLOGY PARTS

Section 1 lists devices that are under ECCN# 3A991 & 5A991

Section 2 lists the devices that are under ECCN 3A001 and are controlled for export

Section 3 lists devices that are encryption/cryptographic devices and are primarily ECCN# 5A002

Devices not listed in this list are primarily ECCN# EAR99. Please check with Linear Export Compliance (eosborne@linear.com) for confirmation.

All Linear Radiation Hardened (RH) devices have been reclassified by the U.S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of Industry and Security and are on Sheet 2 of this listing. All RH devices are now under ECCN# EAR99. The info on Sheet 2 includes the associated CCATS number for each RH device and the date that it was issued. For further information, contact Elaine Osborne (eosborne@linear.com).

*An Individual Validated License may be required for export to certain countries.

*These devices were self classified as per the new CCL listings published May 23, 2011.

All Variations of the base part number are controlled under the same ECCN number.
 All DICE and DWF related to the above product is controlled under the same ECCN Number as the device.
 It should be treated the same as the finished device.

Devices Not Listed In Section 1 or Section 2 Are Classified as EAR99. For Confirmation, contact: Elaine Osborne @ eosborne@linear.com

All Linear Technology Corporation RAD-Hard Devices have been moved from the ITAR to EAR (Export Administration Regulations) control. The ECCN number that applies to all Linear RH Devices is EAR99. Please see Sheet 2 of this document for a full listing of the RH devices numbers and their corresponding CCATS numbers.

*A Validated License is NOT required for exports to Russia, BUT all encryption products MUST be registered with the Russian Federal Security Bureau, which constitutes an import license. Linear has registered their encryption devices with the Russian FSB, and the registration numbers are listed above in column I of Section 3.

IMPORTATION REQUIREMENTS FOR ENCRYPTION DEVICES

Certain countries have import permit or license requirements for the importation of encryption devices (devices under ECCN# 5A002 or 5D002). For your convenience, we have listed some of the requirements that we are aware of. This is not a complete and definitive list. Other requirements may exist. The purchaser should check with their local Customs Authority have questions. In all cases it is the responsibility of the PURCHASER to confirm whether or not an import license or permit is required, and to obtain all necessary import permits or licenses.

1. China: There are two sets of regulatory regimes that are potentially applicable to the importation & use of encryption devices in China. First, the importation & end use of encryption devices is subject to the October 1999 Commercial Encryption Regulations, administered by the State Encryption Management Board ("SEMB"). Permits from the SEMB are required for the importation & use of commercial encryption devices. Additionally, under those regulations, there are restrictions on the entities in China that can use foreign encryption devices. Such foreign encryption devices may be used only by foreign invested companies for internal purposes. Second, the distribution of "information security products" in China requires a sales license from the Ministry of Public Security ("MOPS"), under the Chinese Measures for the Administration of the Detection and Sales License of Security Products for Computer Systems, dated December 12, 1997.

					2. Hong Kong: The export &amp; import of encryption products (classified under ECCN# 5A002 &amp; 5D002 for export from the USA) requires a license from the Hong Kong Trade &amp; Industry Department ("HKTID"). The import restrictions &amp; licensing requirements are intended primarily to assure (i) that the products have been lawfully exported from the country of origin; and (ii) that the products will not be diverted or reexported (primarily to China) without proper authorization under the Hong Kong export control ordinance.
					3. South Africa: Under the South African Electronic Communications and Transactions Act, any entity that proposes to engage in the importation of merchandise into South Africa must register as an "importer" with the South African Revenue Service ("SARS"). The importer must obtain an import license from the SARS, in accordance with the requirements of the South African Customs Act. It is the responsibility of the purchaser/importer to register as above, and to obtain the necessary import license. Linear Technology is not responsible for these requirements.
					4. Israel: Under the Israeli Order regarding the Engagement in Encryption Devices, 1974, a license is required from the defense Export Control Unit of the Israelie Ministry of Defense in order to import and distribute encryption devices in Israel, unless the Director General of that Unit has declared the particular devices to be a "free means" (in effect, eligible for import &amp; distribution under a general license).
					5. France: The importation &amp; distribution of encryption devices in France requires a notification regarding those devices to the French government agency, the ANSSI, which is part of the Ministry of Defense. The notification requires submission of certain technical information about the encryption devices, especially the encryption algorithms.
					6. Russia: The countries of the Eurasian Common Market (Russia, Kazakhstan &amp; Belarus) have an elaborate program of regulation of the importation, distribution and use of encryption devices. An import license is required for the import of encryption devices into these countries, and such import licenses (from the Ministry of Industry and Trade) are based upon registration or notification of the devices with the Russian Federal Security Service. Linear Technology has received Russian Registration status for our encryption devices. The registration numbers are listed to the far right of the device number in Section 3 above.
					7. Ukraine: The import of encryption devices into Ukrain is subject to regulation by the Ukrainian State Service of Special Communication and Data Protection, under Regulation No. 543 of the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine, dated May 25, 2011.
