Electrical Safety

DURATOOL

Features:

- The dangers of electricity can be divided into two groups :
  - 1) Dangers to people (electrocution, burns).
  - 2) Dangers to surroundings (fires, explosions).
- To protect employees from these certain precautions have to be taken.
- These depend on the location and how electricity is used there.
- A detailed plan must be drawn up for each one, complying with regulations.
- All signs comply with electricity at work regulations 1989 and meet the requirements of both BS5378 the health and safety (signs and signals) regulations 1996.
