Description of Change:

After several years in the market, Industry Applied Offer Product Marketing confirms that select XPS safety relays will be reaching end of commercialization later this year. The end of commercialization date is December 20, 2020. However, we are requesting distributors and customers submit last time buys before October 30, 2020.

The new range offers several benefits, including fewer references to cover more safety functions, smart diagnostic output, and more. Please see enclosed transition tool and XPSU technical presentation for more information.
