

Topic: Signal lamps VDE approval and delivery problems

Dear Sir or Madam,

we regret to inform you that the following signal lamps no longer have VDE approval with immediate effect. The VDE approval has expired for this product families and will not be renewed. This means that these products are now delivered without VDE approval.

We must also inform you that we expect delivery problems of the following signal lamps in the next months. Despite our responsible actions, the situation has unfortunately come to a head with regard to the following products. This means that we can no longer meet the planned delivery dates. We are working at full speed to restore delivery capability and expect to be able to deliver again in July 2025.

Please also forward this important information to other responsible departments in your company.
