Overview

- Molex will adopt a production method that meets the same quality controls as the current tooling. Molex has implemented a perfection product design for the mating process. The function and mating process remain consistent.
- Product Impact
 - "no impact to fit, function"
- Part Number Impact and Products Pictures
 - Please refer attached impacted part list.
- PPAP and samples available upon request after 2026/03/30

To align with your needs, all requests must be completed with confirmed results by this change's implementation date. These part numbers are Molex proprietary designs, therefore considered catalog/general market product. Note that PPAP documentation will not be issued without a formal request.

 - If PPAP is not requested, or no result is received after PPAP submission prior to the implementation date, PPAP will be considered approved.
 - We appreciate your support and urgently seek your assistance to resolve the supply disruption. This will help maintain stable operations, ensure business continuity, and uphold our commitments to you.

PCN will be implemented once all required qualification/ validation has been completed and all necessary approvals have been obtained.
